

Grade 6 Lesson Plan: Happiness

SOLs

Objectives/Goals

- Students will be able to describe and analyze the practical applications of the science of happiness for human relationships, lifestyles, and thinking habits.

Materials

- Student Packet (Provided)
- PowerPoint (Provided)

Procedure

Step 1

- Have students take the happiness survey
- Go over the results

Step 2

- Students will brainstorm what they think are the 7 most important habits to make people happy and then give a rationale for each answer.
- Go over the PowerPoint with the researched 7 habits of happy people. Have students write down the answers and analyze what each factor brings people happiness.
- If teacher wants a supplemental article, read Six Ways Happiness is Good for Your Health.

Step 3

- Students will fill out the “5 things I like about me” worksheet.
- Students will read the 101 positive affirmation statements and select the top six that they feel best represent the comments that they relate to and can benefit from reading them often.
- Students will make illustrations to capture the 6 comments and place them in their binder so they can refer to them often.

Assessment Idea

- Students will be able to describe and analyze the practical applications of the science of happiness for human relationships, lifestyles, and thinking habits.

Handout

The next page includes suggested handouts for the lesson. The handout is designed for print use only.

Children’s Happiness Survey

Here are 20 things children or young people might say about themselves. Just read each of them and tick all the ones that are right about you. Leave the others blank.

Life is good for me at the moment	<input type="checkbox"/>	3.64
I am treated fairly	<input type="checkbox"/>	3.13
I know what is happening next in my life	<input type="checkbox"/>	3.15
I have big problems but am dealing with them	<input type="checkbox"/>	2.55
I am quite proud of myself	<input type="checkbox"/>	3.65
I am trying to change some things about myself	<input type="checkbox"/>	2.57
I don’t have any big problems at the moment	<input type="checkbox"/>	3.22
I have lots of friends	<input type="checkbox"/>	4.01
I get confused about what is going on	<input type="checkbox"/>	2.43
I never feel safe	<input type="checkbox"/>	1.74
I often get anxious	<input type="checkbox"/>	2.32
I get lonely	<input type="checkbox"/>	1.68
People are prejudiced against me	<input type="checkbox"/>	1.77
I learn from my mistakes	<input type="checkbox"/>	3.18
I am a shy person	<input type="checkbox"/>	2.63

I have lots of fun	<input type="checkbox"/>	4.25
I am easily depressed	<input type="checkbox"/>	1.75

To find out your ‘happiness score’ on this questionnaire:

1. Add up the numbers next to all the items you have ticked
2. Next, write how many items you ticked
3. Now divide the number you wrote against (1) by the number you have just written against (2) and write the answer in the box

That is your happiness score for today on this questionnaire!

Children's Happiness Results

The highest ('happiest') possible score is 4.25. The 'middle' score is 2.88. (That is what researchers would call the 'median'). The lowest possible score (unless someone doesn't tick any of the items in the questionnaire at all!) is 1.68.

7 Habits of Happy People

Directions

- Before your teacher shows you the 7 Habits of Happy People, brainstorm what you think are the 7 most important habits to make people happy. Give a rationale for each answer.
- Next, you will see the PowerPoint and take notes on the actual 7 Habits of Happy People.
- Lastly, you will analyze how each habit makes people one step closer to being happy and fulfilled.

Positive Self-Talk

Self-talk is the voice in our head that goes on throughout the day. You might think to yourself, “I need to study tonight so I do well on the quiz” or “I should raise my hand and try to answer this question”. In those instances, the voice is positive and encouraging. Self-talk can be negative, too. With negative self-talk you might say, “I’m always horrible at math, so there’s no reason to even study”. However, this negative approach can actually damage your self-esteem and ability to be productive. On the flip side, positive self-talk helps feel more confident, motivated, and ready to accomplish tasks. In simple terms, the better you feel about yourself, the better you’ll be able to do.

You can change your thinking and become more positive just by changing the way you think. By using more positive self-talk, you encourage yourself and become more optimistic. It’s the first step in making positive choices, whether you are talking about school, friends, sports, or anything else in your life.

Let’s consider an example. Erin took a science test and got a 70% when she was hoping to do much better. She might say to herself, “You did horribly. What were you even thinking? You are just bad at science”. That negative thinking might discourage her from studying science in the future and just make her feel poorly about herself. Instead, with positive self-talk she might say to herself, “It’s okay to make a mistake sometimes. You did the best you could at the time. With some extra studying, next time you’ll do even better”. Erin will be more likely to feel more confident in herself and be able to rise back from this setback. Even though it’s a disappointment, positive self-talk can help her through it.

LET’S BRAINSTORM

What are some examples of positive self-talk that you can say to yourself?
